Pilot project: The collection is available online

Münster: With the pilot project "Eventers from Westphalia", the first online auction for eventing horses takes place at the Westphalian Stud Book. Ten exclusive young horses, which are waiting to start in the cross-country courses of the world, are for sale in this auction.

Westphalian auction horses are reliable partners for all branches of equestrian sport. For the first time, the Westphalian Stud Book is organising an online auction for up-and-coming eventing horses. Under the motto "Eventers from Westphalia", promising young horses for the higher level of sport will be up for sale.

In the online auction from 17 to 21 March, ten exclusive young horses waiting to start in cross-country classes will be offered. Interesting bloodlines with a high proportion of thoroughbred promise great things for the future of these young talents. From the unbroken youngster to the just started rough diamond to the experienced riding horse, the collection leaves no desires open.

Expressive photo and video impressions as well as all pedigree information are available at onlineauction.westfalenpferde.de. The auction candidates have been examined by a veterinarian. Registered users have access to x-ray pictures and the veterinary examination protocol on the auction platform.

A personal viewing of the auction horses and trying out of the already ridden auction candidates is possible at any time by appointment. Please do not hesitate to contact us! Bids for the eventing horses of the future can be submitted online from March 17 to 21. The final BidUp will start on Monday, March 21, at 7.30 pm.
